Introduction

The University of North Carolina's (UNC) Board of Governors (BoG) has delegated the responsibility for intercollegiate athletics to campus chancellors under the Code's Delegation of Duty and Authority. This delegation is subject to the requirements and mandates of BoG Policy 1100.1 (see Appendix A) and the annual BoG report requires disclosure of the academic characteristics and performance of the UNC system's student-athletes. It is aligned and synchronized, where possible, with the information campuses previously reported to the NCAA and the U.S. Department of Education. This report follows all reporting standards required by the BoG, including recommendations made in the 2011 UNC Task Force Report on Athletics and Academics, which President Ross required all UNC campuses to implement in 2012.

In this report, information for 2012-13 is presented regarding the academic profile of freshmen student-athletes, majors of student-athletes that have attained at least junior status, and various academic success indicators. Additionally, this report provides information touching on athletics fundraising and private foundations that support student-athletes and athletic departments at UNC institutions. Universities with programs receiving awards or sanctions due to their academic performance are also highlighted. Finally, information is presented regarding non-academic violations of NCAA bylaws relevant to student-athletes and prospective student-athletes.

Information regarding new academic integrity regulations adopted in April 2013 will be included in the next UNC Intercollegiate Athletics Report (See Appendix B for the new regulations). These regulations stem from extensive discussions among campus stakeholders and incorporate concepts discussed in the UNC-Chapel Hill Report of the Independent Study Task Force,¹ the Report of the Special Subcommittee of the Faculty Executive Committee,² and specific campus policies at all UNC institutions addressing monitoring of academics and student-athletes.

As a part of this discussion on academic integrity, courses will be monitored in greater detail, focusing on the clustering of student-athletes, the use of independent study courses, and student records will have new guidelines to prevent unauthorized grade changes. Campuses are working now to implement changes and will be ready to report progress to UNC General Administration (UNC-GA) and the BoG in the next Intercollegiate Athletics Report.

Academic Profile of Recruited Freshmen Student-Athletes³

Exceptions to UNC Minimum Course Requirements

Student-athletes, as all students, are subject to BoG Policy 700.1.1 on the “Minimum Course Requirements for Undergraduate Admission” and BoG 700.1.1.1[R] on the “Regulations on Minimum Undergraduate Admission Requirements and the Admission of Students Requiring Special Consideration.” Special consideration #6 of the regulation states:

“Other applicants who, due to unusual or special circumstances, do not meet all of the minimum high school course unit requirements but who have achieved a superior academic record, as measured by grades, rank in class, admissions tests scores, the rigor of courses taken, or who demonstrate special talents: institutions may waive some of the minimum requirements for applicants in this category upon a finding that such individuals are qualified. The process resulting in an exception must include faculty participation with final authorization for an exception to be made by the chancellor.”

Table 1 provides the number of minimum course requirements (MCR) admissions exceptions for all freshmen and recruited freshmen student-athletes in 2012-13, organized by NCAA Division.

- There were a total of 106 exceptions in 2012-13, representing 0.3% of all entering freshmen (32,374).
- Of the total number of exceptions for all freshmen, recruited student-athletes made up approximately 21% in 2012-13, down from 22% in 2011-12 and 30% in 2010-11.
 - Exceptions for recruited freshman student-athletes represent less than one tenth of one percent of the total freshmen population (0.07%).
- A total of 1,343 recruited freshmen student-athletes were enrolled at UNC institutions in 2012-13 and only 1.6% of them received an exception.

High School NCAA Core Course GPA, SAT/ACT of Recruited Freshmen Student-Athletes

A student-athlete who enrolls as an entering freshman without any previous full-time college attendance must meet the NCAA’s academic requirements (as certified by the NCAA Eligibility Center and approved by the NCAA Executive Committee) and any applicable institutional and conference regulations. Among these academic measures are SAT/ACT scores and the high school grade point average in NCAA defined high school core courses.⁴

Table 2 presents the academic profile of recruited freshman student-athletes in the three major revenue sports entering in 2012-13, organized by NCAA Division. Data are not provided if the number of student-athletes in a cell is fewer than 3 or if there were no new recruited freshman student-athletes in a sport in a given year. Across all three revenue sports, most of the indicators showed an increase. The only sport that saw a slight decrease was Men’s Basketball, which declined from 3.05 in 2011-12 to 3.01 in 2012-13

⁴ Average high school NCAA core course GPA is based on 16 core courses for Division I schools and 14 core courses Division II schools. For a list of NCAA core courses, see: http://fs.ncaa.org/Docs/eligibility_center/Quick_Reference_Sheet.pdf

Per FERPA guidelines, if there are fewer than three student-athletes in this category, the data is not reported
 NA - no recruited freshmen student-athletes or scores to report

Section 13b of BoG 1100.1 requires each campus to report its “admission policy for student-athletes including the definitions utilized for exceptions to campus-based criteria.” These policies were reported to UNC-GA in early 2013, presented in the previous Intercollegiate Athletics Report, and remain on file.

Selected Majors of Recruited Student-Athletes

The selected academic majors of recruited student-athletes vary. Appendix D provides, by campus, the majors of recruited student-athletes from all sports enrolled in Fall 2012 achieving at least junior academic standing. The top three majors make up nearly fifty percent of all majors - they are:

- Business, management, marketing & related support services (21%)
- Parks, recreation, leisure & fitness studies (15%)
- Communication, journalism and related programs (11%)

Student-Athlete Success Indicators

Graduation Rates for Student-Athletes

There are several indicators commonly used to measure student athlete success, the three reported here are the NCAA's Graduation Success Rate (GSR) for Division I schools, the NCAA's Academic Success Rate (ASR) for Division II schools, and the U.S. Department of Education's federal graduation rate (FGR) for student-athletes. The GSR and ASR figures are typically higher than the FGR rates due to differing methodologies. Detailed definitions for the GSR, ASR, and FGR can be found in Appendix E.

The FGR measures the percentage of first-time, full-time freshmen student-athletes who graduate within six years of enrolling in their original four-year institution. This graduation rate is the same as the traditional six-year graduation rate for all students used by the U.S. Department of Education (IPEDS rates) and reported by UNC annually. The GSR was developed as an alternative measure to the FGR, as the GSR measures scholarship student-athletes but includes student transfers and allows institutions to exclude student-athletes who leave their institutions prior to graduation as long as they would have been academically eligible to compete had they remained (FGRs do not include them). The ASR is very similar to the GSR, but the ASR includes student-athlete graduation data regardless of whether or not they received an athletic scholarship. The GSR, ASR, and FGRs measure the six-year graduation rates of student-athletes and are calculated using a four-year rolling average by combining student cohorts.

Although direct comparisons of campus GSRs, ASRs, and FGRs are complicated due to the differing methodologies, it can be useful to review how UNC campuses compare against their UNC BOG-approved peers and those in their respective athletic conferences.

- When comparing UNC institutions with their BOG-approved peers, seven UNC campuses performed as well as or better than the average GSRs/ASRs of those peer institutions.
- A comparison of UNC institutions with their athletic conference peers show that three UNC campuses performed as well as or better than the average GSRs/ASRs of those peer institutions.

A full presentation of GSRs, ASRs, and FGRs for all UNC campuses by sport are presented in Appendix F. Overall campus GSRs, ASRs, and FGRs are provided alongside their UNC BOG-approved and athletic conference peers in Appendix G.

NCAA Academic Progress Rates for Student-Athletes

The Academic Progress Rate (APR) is a NCAA Division I metric developed to track the individual sports academic achievement by academic terms and is used to determine in-season or post-season penalties. The NCAA's APR reports for all UNC Division I campuses can be accessed from the APR database: <http://fs.ncaa.org/Docs/newmedia/public/rates/index5.html>.

The APR is calculated using a variety of indicators. Each scholarship student-athlete can earn 2 points each academic term (1 point for maintaining academic eligibility and 1 point for returning to the institution in the next semester). Thus, the maximum number of points a student-athlete can earn per year toward the team's APR is 4 points, 2 per academic term. To calculate the APR, every student-athlete's academic eligibility and retention are tracked and known as:

- "E" points: a student-athlete meets academic eligibility standards for the next academic term.
- "R" points: a student-athlete is enrolled full time as of the fifth week of class or census date (whichever is earlier) of the next term.

For instance, scholarship student-athletes who perform well in the classroom and are retained earn 2 points toward the team's annual APR. Those who are eligible to return but depart the institution earn 1 point. A student-athlete who does not perform well academically and leaves school earns 0 points towards the team's total. The team's APR is calculated by dividing the total points earned in a year by the total points possible in a year and multiplying by 1,000, so the APR is based on a maximum score of 1,000.

In Fall 2011, the NCAA Division I Board of Directors voted to increase the minimum APR determining post-season eligibility and in-season penalties from 925 to 930 APR. The implementation of this new standard will occur in phases, with full implementation beginning in the 2015-16 academic year. In the transitional phase, the four-year APR threshold for post-season eligibility was initially lowered to 900 and a two-year average is available for individual athletic programs to use as an alternative measure. The four-year threshold of 930 begins in 2014-15, and in 2015-16, there will be no additional opportunity to utilize a two-year average APR to avoid penalties. Table 3 was created to help clarify the transitional phase of the APR increase.⁵

For each team that is performing below the APR standard, institutions are required to establish an “APR Improvement Plan.” The institutions must keep these plans on file for review during the NCAA’s Athletics Certification Review conducted every ten years. Institutions with a team or teams achieving a multi-year APR below the NCAA standard, or institutions with teams requesting a waiver of an APR penalty, must file their APR Improvement Plan for that team(s) with the NCAA National Office. The NCAA requires the plan to have:

- Broad-based participation
- Identification of issues impacting APR
- Specific, measurable goals to address issues
- Steps to achieve the goals
- Timetable for implementation
- Identification of persons responsible for each step
- Single-year target APR goals

The most common APR strategies for improvement cited by the NCAA are:

- Increased academic review of incoming student-athletes
- Specific class attendance policies
- Summer-school bridge programs for incoming student-athletes
- Reviews of special admissions policies and practices

- Establishment of mentor programs to encourage student-athlete retention
- APR education sessions for student-athletes, coaches and campus administrators
- Increased post-eligibility degree completion programming

The new APR structure implemented by the NCAA allows for some adjustments for teams that improve once they enter the second level of penalties. The NCAA Board provided special allowances for historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs) and limited-resource schools by supporting the creation of an HBCU advisory group to study academic performance of student-athletes at those institutions. In addition, the NCAA Board also approved a new three-level penalty structure:

- Level One: Limits teams to 16 hours of practice a week over five days, with the lost four hours to be replaced with academic activities. This represents a reduction of four hours and one day per week of practice time.
- Level Two: Includes the Level One penalty, along with a reduction of four hours of practice time out of season that is replaced with academic activities. This level also includes the elimination of non-championship seasons or spring football. Teams without a non-championship season face a reduced number of contests.
- Level Three: Includes all Level One and Two penalties, plus a menu of potential additional penalties. These may include financial aid reductions, additional practice and contest restrictions, coach-specific penalties (including game and recruiting restrictions), restricted access to practice for incoming students who fall below certain academic standards, restricted NCAA membership, and potential multiyear bans on postseason competition. Teams remain at this level until their APR improves.

Penalties are progressive and cumulative in nature and a team must demonstrate three “clean” years (i.e., without any penalty) in order to avoid progression in the penalty structure described above.

The latest APR scores were released by the NCAA in June 2013 and are based on four years of data covering student-athlete cohorts entering in 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12. Table 4 lists the UNC institution that received penalties as a result of their 2012-2013 APR. Only one campus with two sports received a penalty this year, a decrease from 2011-12 where three schools and five sports were penalized.

Table 5 lists the UNC institutions participating in Division I athletics that had a team(s) with a four-year APR score below 930 along with their two-year APR. With the exception of Men's Indoor and Outdoor Track at North Carolina A&T, none of the teams listed in Table 5 are currently penalized by the NCAA. Table 5 is provided for informational purposes only to see which programs may be at risk of falling below NCAA standards when the four-year APR standards increase to 930 in 2014-15.

Non-Academic NCAA Violations

Along with monitoring the academic work of student-athletes, the NCAA strictly monitors breaches of conduct that “seriously undermine or threaten the integrity of the NCAA Collegiate Model...” (NCAA, 2013). There are four levels of violations, ranging from severe (Level I, e.g. academic fraud) to incidental (Level IV, e.g. inadvertent, isolated violations). Level I violations are shared with the public by the NCAA while Level II, III, and IV violations are heavily redacted and only shared upon request.

Since Level III and IV violations are considered isolated and incidental, UNC-GA requested information regarding infractions of Levels I and II by UNC institutions. Twelve of the 15 UNC institutions with student-athletes committed violations during the 2012 calendar year and summaries of the one Level I violation and all Level II violations (90) were provided by the NCAA. The individual UNC campuses, however, were not identified by name, only by NCAA division, per NCAA disclosure rules.

Nearly all of the Level II violations were discovered by campus compliance officials or athletics department staff and self-reported to the NCAA: with most campuses below the NCAA national average for violations. The range in number of violations (from 0 to 22) does not necessarily reflect systemic problems in athletics departments with larger numbers of violations, as some UNC campuses simply have a larger number of student-athletes and athletics teams, which increases the likelihood of inadvertent violations of NCAA bylaws.

A summary of the key findings is included below and a more complete report of Level II non-academic violations is presented in Appendix H.

- Number of Level I violations = 1
- Number of Level II violations = 90
 - NCAA Division I average for Level II violations = 9
 - » UNC Division I average for Level II violations = 7 (ranging from 0-22)
 - » Two UNC campuses were above the NCAA average for Division I Level II violations
 - NCAA Division II average for Level II violations = 15
 - » UNC Division II average for Level II violations = 3 (ranging from 0-9)
 - » No UNC campuses were above the NCAA average for Division II Level II violations

Athletics Fundraising and Private Foundations

The UNC campuses that have established private foundations (or “booster clubs”) for the purpose of providing resources to enrich various programs of the constituent institutions are:

- East Carolina University
- Fayetteville State University
- North Carolina A & T State University
- North Carolina Central University
- North Carolina State University
- UNC-Chapel Hill
- UNC Charlotte
- UNC Greensboro
- UNC Wilmington

These private organizations are subject to BoG Policy 600.2.5 which requires an annual independent audit be performed and reported to the institution’s Board of Trustees and that a copy be provided to the President to be reviewed by UNC-GA staff. This year’s reports were presented to the Audit Committee of the Board of Governors at its June 2013 meeting.

Continued Review of Intercollegiate Athletics

As part of ongoing efforts to improve the academic performance of student-athletes and strengthen campus activities surrounding athletics, there are two continuing activities occurring on UNC campuses and within UNC-GA:

- Campuses are implementing new Academic Integrity Guidelines approved by the BOG in April 2013;⁶ and
- President Ross established the Athletics Financial Transparency Working Group to review the manner in which the University accounts for and reports the funding and financial operations of athletics activities undertaken by the constituent institutions. The Working Group will provide a final report to President Ross at the end of January 2014.

12. The chancellors shall ensure that the position of director of athletics is separate and distinct from the position of a coach of any sport.
 13. The chancellors shall submit an annual report to the Board of Trustees of the constituent institutions with a copy to the President, who will report to the Board of Governors.
 14. The annual report shall be designed according to criteria and format defined by the Office of the President and shall include the following elements:

 - b. the admission policy for student-athletes including the definitions utilized for exceptions to campus-based criteria;
 - c. student-athlete exceptions to the minimum course requirements set by the Board of Governors and defined in Policy 700.1.1 and Regulation 700.1.1.1[R];
 - d. the student-athlete profiles for admitted student-athletes including SAT/ACT scores, high school grade point averages and NCAA classifications;

Appendix B - Academic Integrity Regulations

The UNC Policy Manual

700.6.1[R]

Adopted 04/25/13

The following set of required procedures will enhance the ability of each UNC campus to monitor and protect the integrity of its curriculum, student evaluation, and academic records. In addition, the appropriate review, evaluation, and supervision of University staff, including academic department chairs and other faculty administrators, will promote an enhanced culture of academic integrity. These procedures are to be implemented in addition to and in concert with the recommendations included in the 2011 Report of the Task Force on Athletics and Academics, the implementation of which President Ross has already required. These supplemental procedures stem from extensive discussions among campus stakeholders and incorporate concepts discussed in the UNC-Chapel Hill Report of the Independent Study Task Force, the Report of the Special Subcommittee of the Faculty Council, and specific campus policies addressing monitoring of academics and student-athletes, as well as the report of the Board of Governors Academic Review Panel.

The procedures below are grouped by functional area, and each has a corresponding implementation date.

1. Registrar and Student Records Best Practices
 - a. All campuses will have clear rules designating individuals (by position occupied) authorized to submit a course grade or grade change, and the circumstances under which such changes may be made. (September 2013)
 - b. All campuses will have audit procedures for verifying that only an authorized person submitted grades or grade changes to the student information system. (September 2013)
 - c. All campuses will maintain an electronic record of grade-related approvals and changes to the student information system. (December 2014)
 - d. All campuses will have course numbering and reporting conventions that utilize separate section numbers to identify independent study courses taught by individual faculty members. (May 2014)

2. Evaluating the Academic Performance of Student-Athletes and Other Student

Subgroups

- a. Using results from the 2013 Board of Governors' Intercollegiate Athletics Report, General Administration will work with campuses to develop a common threshold or definition of clustering by student-athletes or other student subgroups that will trigger an automatic review of flagged courses to determine whether there were any irregularities in the reasons clustering occurred. (December 2013)
 - b. On an annual basis, all campuses will review the course grade-point averages calculated for student-athletes and other student subgroups versus non-student-athletes and other identified subgroups. A summary of student-athlete comparisons will be included in the required Board of Governors' Intercollegiate Athletics Report, beginning in 2014.
 - c. All campuses will have procedures for notifying academic advisors and Academic Support Program staff of any changes made to the course grades of student-athletes and/or to their course schedules after the designated two-week drop/add period. (December 2013)
3. Review and Approval of Nonstandard Courses and Course Sections
 - a. All campuses will have processes and policies to ensure that all forms of individualized instruction conform to the basic guidelines pertaining to other undergraduate courses, including but not limited to a syllabus or learning contract specifying expected student learning outcomes, number of hours of expected work, grading information, and scheduled meeting times with the faculty member. (September 2013)
4. Supervision and Evaluation of Faculty and Faculty Administrators
 - a. All campuses will have guidelines on the number of undergraduate independent studies a faculty member may teach per term. If campuses choose to enumerate a limited number of circumstances under which exceptions to these limits may be approved, guidelines must enumerate the required individuals (by position) who must grant approval. (September 2013)
 - b. All campuses will have criteria and processes to ensure the regular review and evaluation of all aspects of performance of department chairs. (September 2013)

Appendix C - Definition of Recruited Student-Athletes

Data elements in the report define student-athletes as individuals who were “recruited” based on NCAA Bylaw 13.02.12.1, which defines a recruited prospective student-athlete as follows:

“Actions by staff members or athletics representatives that cause a prospective student-athlete to become a recruited prospective student-athlete at that institution are:

- a. Providing the prospective student-athlete with an official visit;
- b. Having an arranged, in-person, off-campus encounter with the prospective student-athlete or the prospective student-athlete’s parents, relatives or legal guardians;
- c. Initiating or arranging a telephone contact with the prospective student-athlete, the prospective student-athlete’s relatives or legal guardians on more than one occasion for the purpose of recruitment; or
- d. Issuing a National Letter of Intent or the institution’s written offer of athletically related financial aid to the prospective student-athlete. Issuing a written offer of athletically related financial aid to a prospective student-athlete to attend a summer session prior to full-time enrollment does not cause the prospective student-athlete to become recruited.”

A recruited student-athlete may or may not receive an athletic scholarship. Student-athletes who are “walk-ons” and are not defined as “recruited” under NCAA Bylaw 13.02.12.1 are not included in the data presented in this report.

Appendix E - UNC Campus Graduation and Academic Success Rate Methodologies

The calculations of the GSR, ASR and the Federal Graduation Rate are different. The core elements of each methodology are:

GSR/ASR Methodologies

- The GSR measures graduation rates at Division I institutions and includes students transferring into the institutions. The GSR also allows institutions to exclude student-athletes who leave their institutions prior to graduation as long as they would have been academically eligible to compete had they remained.
 - Includes only scholarship student-athletes.
- The ASR is the parallel Division II measure and differs from the GSR by including freshmen athletes who did not receive athletics financial aid.
- The GSR adds to the first-time freshmen, those students who entered mid-year, as well as student-athletes who transferred into an institution; excludes students from the entering cohort who are considered “allowable exclusions” (e.g. mortality, permanent disability, those who depart to join the armed forces, foreign services, or attend church missions) and those who would have been academically eligible to compete had they returned to the institution.
- Includes both Fall and Spring semesters.
- Provides a four-year cohort rolling average on the six-year graduation rate.
- Both GSR and ASR produce rates by sport.

FGR Methodology

- Includes only first-time full-time freshmen enrolled in Fall semester.
- Includes scholarship student-athletes.
- Does not include transfers in or transfers out.
- Provides the most recent cohort and a four-year cohort rolling average.
- By sport defined as football, men’s basketball, women’s basketball, baseball, men’s cross country/track, men’s cross country/track, men’s other, women’s other.
- By gender and race.

The GSR, ASR, and FGR data for UNC campuses were collected from: <http://fs.ncaa.org/Docs/newmedia/public/rates/index5.html>.
